

Chest radiographs in PA view shows a radiopaque density at right lower lung field and obscured right cardiac margin (red arrows). The chest radiographs in lateral view shows consolidation of RML, most due to RML pneumonia (blue arrows). This finding maybe overlooked because the breast shadows superimposed over RML pneumonia. Lateral view of chest and compared with previous CXR are helpful.